STEVENS POINT — From March 5 through May 3, Q Gallery Artist Cooperative will present a combined show entitled "Basketry in the 21st Century: Willow, Bark & Fiber" and "Branching Out: Trees in Art".

These shows will feature the work of basket maker Elise Thornton along with 12 other Q artists who have created pieces inspired by trees.

The gallery reception will be on March 8th from 5-7 p.m. This event is free and open to the public.

Elise Thornton uses a wide range of materials to fuse traditional techniques from many cultures with new and evolved designs.

The inside of the gallery will become a tribute to nature and will mark the transition from winter to spring with warm, earthy components infused into art. This show will provide a wonderful space to escape from the harsh cold of winter.

About Q Gallery Artist Cooperative: Q Gallery is run by a cooperative of local and regional artists, accepted through a juried process. The gallery offers a range of fine art – painting, printmaking, photography, fabric, jewelry, clay, glass, furniture, lamps, and more – all handmade. The gallery is located at 1108 Main Street downtown Stevens Point. Additional information can be found online at qartists.com.
